Extension is here for you

Home? My name is Brandon Boughen and I am your new Denton County agriculture and natural resources agent. I would like to introduce myself and give you a preview of things to come in Denton County.

I started my career in Feltus County as the agriculture and natural resources agent and dealt primarily with farm management, beef production and urban horticulture. The first time my wife and I came to Denton we remained at our home in Feltus for several years before moving to Denton County where we purchased a home in the 2000s.

I would like to give special thanks to my assistants, committee members and workgroups for keeping the educational events on track while the agent position was vacant. It made it a lot easier to get things moving once I was here.

I would like to quickly cover what extension is for all who do not know. Basic extension services exist because of the passing of the Smith Act of 1902, which brought forth the land grant university system that specializes in agricultural, horticultural and urban horticulture. Extension agents, otherwise known as extension educators, disseminate research-based information to help consumers.

"It is an awesome place to work," said Boughen. "I've been here for a year and a half and I love it. I've met so many great people and I've learned so much. I've also been able to help a lot of people with their problems. It's a great feeling to know that you've made a difference in someone's life."

"We're experiencing a lot of dry weather right now, and the dry weather started about three months ago when we started hitting triple digits," said Jeff Kattner, owner of A.J. "Now all that hot weather has dried up the soil, and that's causing a dramatic drop in foundation."

The conspiracy for failure in 401(k) plans

Unfortunately, most of the industry - mutual fund companies, investment advisers and others - have a vested interest in keeping fees high because our retirement accounts are so large. The result amounts to a conspiracy to suppress returns.

Scott Burns
In my recent article, I explained how the financial services industry is offering the best example of a "conspiracy for failure." What it really means is that the industry is offering the best example of a "conspiracy for failure."
